PRICE THREE CENTS.

Assessors Argue With Boss Taxman

One Insists That Price "Under the Hammer" Is Correct Measure of Value—Many Men of Many Minds on Tax Problems.

At the afternoon session of the board of supervisors and the assessors of the county held at the court house in conjunction with the State Tax Commission delegation which paid its official visit to the county, the question of assessing at full value and the matter of equalization were taken up and very thoroughly discussed. That Ulster county is not assessing at full value was stated in Commissioner Graves's address and after his talk questions were in order. Several of the assessors inquired how they were to arrive at full value figures and also why they should assess at full value. These questions were very thoroughly gone into by the commissioner.

Commissioner Graves stated that something was wrong with the equalization figures as they appeared on record. The board of supervisors was using one set of figures and the state another. This was wrong, either one or the other was wrong and he believed the county figures were as reliable to be wrong as the state's as the state had taken up the matter in all localities and had worked out by a very fair method the figures which it used. If the state's figures were wrong and the county figures were right or the opposite then it was high time they got together and arrived at the right figures. The county is losing money every year while the difference exists, or else the county is receiving too much money from the state, according to which set of figures is right.

In many counties Mr. Graves said that the equalization committee of the board was a big thing. It was used as a means of punishing a disliked supervisor by adding a few points to his share or as a reward to some popular man by taking off a few points in his town. If a supervisor was popular and his rate was low he was a good fellow and was re-elected. If he was unpopular and disliked and the equalization committee of the board so asked him and added a few points to his rate then he was not re-elected. Supervisors were often re-elected or beaten on ability to juggle with these figures in the board.

The present system of two rates was absurd he said and the sooner the use figures were arrived at and used the sooner equalization of taxes would be secured. By keeping assessments in towns down many thought they kept the state tax down. This is not true, for the state tax is laid on the state valuation and not on the amount of assessed property which the local assessor places on a town. The state has its own figures which the state equalization board works out. Full valuation assessments were the only remedy to give equality of taxation.

This brought up the discussion as to how to arrive at full value of property. One assessor stated that in the town of Marlborough property was selling at as much as $1,000 an acre and this was far beyond its true value. A foreign element was coming in and paying abnormal prices for the land. These sales figures were not true values and he desired to know how to arrive at true value figures.

Supervisor Schantz supplemented the remarks by stating that in Lloyd the same condition existed. Foreign population comes in and pays a terrific price for property, they pay down a small first payment and give a big mortgage. After a few seasons during which they milk the land of all that is of value and put no improvements on the property or land, they turn back the property to the original owner and leave. These farms are then in a most run down condition and of little value. In his opinion these sales were not representative of true value.

To this Commissioner Graves agreed and stated that these sales should be ignored where they exist and when the state makes up its figures from the sales tables it should eliminate such sales which appeared to be unusual. Mr. Schantz further wanted to know how the figures were arrived at in Albany and stated that in his opinion the people who reside in the county know as much or perhaps more about local values than the people in Albany.

Mr. Graves then explained in detail how the values were arrived at in Albany. They are made up from sales of land in particular localities. Village and country property are segregated, unfair sales are eliminated, sales between relatives and foreigners and forced sales are eliminated, etc. Then by averaging village, city and country property sales and off their valuation from bulk sales in the town under consideration.

Fear Outbreaks On May Day

Scotland Yard Takes Plot Against Life of Chamberlain Seriously—Communists in Other Countries Reported to be Ready for Demonstration.

By Telegraph to The Freeman. London, April 30.—The approach of May Day again brought tenacity to conservative quarters today. Bulgaria's recent sanguine outbreak of Communists, which was still causing concern in Sofia, the round up of radicals in Rome and the plot reported against Austen Chamberlain, British foreign secretary, furnished anti-Bolshevik newspapers with more than the usual material for May Day danger.

Executives of Scotland Yard today were taking the reported plot against Secretary Chamberlain seriously, it was learned today. Guards protecting all members of the cabinet were doubled, as further details of the plot were received from the Austrian government at Vienna.

A message from Riga said a bomb had been discovered under a railroad in what was believed an attempt to wreck the train carrying the Estonian presidential party. Sofia reported new skirmishes with the Communists. Artillery forces had been forced to shell the radicals in the outskirts of the Bulgarian capital.

British government circles maintained their calm, declaring there was little danger of any general uprising or demonstration.

Marx to Support Von Hindenburg

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Berlin, April 30.—Wilhelm Marx, defeated Republican candidate for president, today extended his promise of support to the victor, Field Marshal Von Hindenburg. "The German people elected you. In conformity with true democracy all adherents of the Constitution now should endorse the nation's constitutional majority," the former chancellor said, in a letter to the president-elect.

"My desire is that the German people, under your presidency, find internal rest, peace, economic recovery and the healing of war wounds by the truly democratic spirit. "May the German people regain the world position which it deserves due to its capabilities and achievements."

Marx also will ask his supporters, in a proclamation, to support Hindenburg.

Los Angeles Delayed Again. Lakehurst, N. J., April 30.—The United States dirigible Los Angeles will not get away for Porto Rico until Saturday, it was indicated today. Rain was falling this morning and the dirigible was given a thorough soaking. It will have to be dried out before the hop off is made.

They were assessing for 65 per cent. In arriving at its figures the state of 1,129 pieces of property in the state county was considered by the state board of equalization. Last year the assessed valuation of the state value was 45 per cent. of the sales value as determined by the state board. The state board allowed a rate of 52 per cent. in the county.

In pointing out the advantages of a full assessment, Mr. Graves said, first it was the law. Second, it is the only way to get equality of assessments, that special franchise values are assessed by the state at full value and then are brought down to the rate which is being used in the locality but in actual money loss was sustained by a low assessment, that is by losing in the division of personal income tax. This tax is divided one-half on the basis of assessed valuation and in the past five years the county has lost $235,000.

He advised the assessors and supervisors to think it over and see if the satisfaction which they got out of under assessments was worth while, whether they got pleasure enough out of it to compensate them for loss and if they thought they did to continue the practice of under-assessing. The matter of school money for poor school districts was brought up and in the town of Shawangunk where the assessment has been bumped to full value it was found that the school money from the state had been cut. One assessor asked why this had been done, and Mr. Graves said he could not say and would not believe that it had been done unless the town had been getting an unfair amount of money from the state previously. He offered to investigate and report to the town if they desired.

Ruggerio's Bail Bond Cancelled

After Residents of Highland Visited Homes of Bondsmen and Notified Them to Surrender Ruggerio, Who is Charged With Kidnapping Two Girls.

About two score residents of Highland visited the home of Joseph and Angelina Angelo there Tuesday night on their return from this city where they had furnished $3,000 bail for Paul Ruggerio and notified them that unless they surrendered the man to the authorities today there might be another visit Wednesday night that would not be so friendly. Wednesday the Angelos cancelled the bail bond there, says the Poughkeepsie Evening Star.

The entire countryside is aroused over the allegation that Ruggerio had taken two young girls and had led them to a life of shame and later had taken from them more than $2,000 of their earnings. Ruggerio is greatly disliked among many of the Italian residents of Highland and there is considerable fear felt about taking him to the village for a hearing Friday afternoon, when he is to appear before Justice of the Peace Sol Carpenter.

The Angelos went to Poughkeepsie Tuesday at the urgent request of some of Ruggerio's friends and attached their names to his bail bond. Immediately after he was released, he was arrested again by state troopers on a warrant from Ulster county and taken to the Kingston jail. He was held there over night and Wednesday morning Sheriff C. Fred Close telephoned to Kingston asking them to hold the man for Dutchess county officials, as his bail had been surrendered and he was wanted here.

The Angelos are highly respected residents of Highland and it is said they did not understand the nature of the charges against Ruggerio. They said they had no intention of trying to shield a man of his alleged reputation, but they had been urged to do so by some of Ruggerio's friends.

Ruggerio has made his home at Highland for many years and is not popular among many of the residents of that section. They propose, they say, to see that he pays to the full extent the penalty for his crimes and are opposed to any of the law-abiding citizens of the place aiding him in any way. Mr. and Mrs. Angelo say that they were not notified to take their names from the bail bond by any organization or band of people, but those who visited them came as individuals. They were most emphatic, however, in their statements that something might happen to anybody who would assist him in getting out of jail.

Another warrant was received in Poughkeepsie Wednesday for the arrest of Ruggerio. This was from the State Department of Prisons where he is wanted for violation of his parole. Ruggerio was committed to serve a term of not less than four years or more than fifteen years at Schenectady on November 10, 1919. He was paroled August 5, 1922. This was on an indictment charging him with robbery in the second degree.

It is also recorded that he was arrested in Schenectady in April, 1918, on the charge of vagrancy and ordered to leave the city. In June, 1919, he was arrested at Amsterdam and fined $50 for carrying concealed weapons without a license.

FURTHER CRITICISM ON CHURCHILL BUDGET.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, April 30.—The new Winston Churchill budget, which provided for a return to the gold standard, an increase of $25,000,000 for the navy and re-imposed the McKenna duties on luxuries, came in for more criticism today after harsh treatment in the night session of the House of Commons. Even Tory colleagues like Senator Robert Horne condemned the new provisions.

Opponents of the measure in the press indicated their belief, however, that the budget would undoubtedly go through.

The Star's financial editor said financiers were fearful that markets would be disturbed by fear due to the return to gold standard, which would mean an increase in the bank rates.

"Gold standard proposals and supporters have unfortunately been too optimistic," the Star said. "Sterling remains under par. A further rise in the bank rate will disable even the little trade left to us."

BOTH NEGROES ARE NOW IN ALBANY PENITENTIARY

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, N. Y., April 30.—The two Negroes who were sentenced to life terms in the Albany penitentiary on Wednesday for the murder of William Dennis, another Negro, in the jaw with a bottle and a brick, were today taken there by Judge Schirck. She was taken there that day by Special Officer Ira Britt.

A few days ago her husband, Albert, also arrested on the same charge of hitting Dennis after Mrs. Holmes had killed him with a bottle, was also sentenced to life in the Albany penitentiary.

Farina's Attempt To Cheat the Law By Suicide Fails

Oranges Were Fastened Together by a Dagger Made From Tooth Brush—'Whitey' Diamond Breaks Down—Chair Ready for Three Tonight Between 11 and 11:30 o'clock.

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Ossining, N. Y., April 30.—The alleged John Farina planned by means of a bone handle of a tooth brush sharpened to a dagger like point, to cheat the law, it was discovered by prison guards today when Farina and Morris and Joseph Diamond were removed to death cells to be executed tonight for the murder of two Brooklyn bank messengers in 1923.

When the three men were taken from their regular cells a guard noticed that Farina held two oranges in his hand. His manner aroused suspicion. The guard examined the oranges and found they were fastened together by a dagger made from a tooth brush.

The guard quoted Farina as saying: "I wanted to see my relatives first. If they had come here yesterday I would have saved you a job tonight."

Morris ("Whitey") Diamond broke down when taken from his cell. He was placed in a padded cell under extra guard.

The three men will die tonight between 11 and 11:30 o'clock in the electric chair unless Governor Al Smith should issue a reprieve.

The three condemned men were bathed this morning and their hair cut short. Clipping of the hair is a precaution to avoid the electrodes "sparking" and shocking the prisoners which might occur if the electrodes were placed against their hair.

The men then were dressed in the significantly black suits, the garb of men going to the death chair.

Morris Diamond regained his composure toward noon and was able to see his sister Elizabeth. He requested and was given a cap that his sister might not see his close cropped head. Joseph Diamond's only request was for cigarettes, which he received.

Governor Smith prepared to leave New York early this afternoon for a twenty-four hour trip which would make him inaccessible to communication.

"There is nothing new on the Diamond brothers case and I have nothing further to say," the governor told newspaper men. He was grave and spoke reluctantly.

The Diamonds had hoped against hope, while in their regular cells that any minute would bring them the welcome news that Governor Smith had granted them a second reprieve. When they were told to prepare for the death cells their hope became despair.

The three condemned men had a restless and sleepless night, prison guards said.

It was expected that Morris Diamond would be the first to go to the chair, it being the custom at Sing Sing to execute first the one who might be near physical collapse.

It will be the first time in history of Sing Sing, said Warden Lawes, that two brothers have gone to death together.

The last blood relative to see the Diamond brothers was their sister, Bessie. She sought to inspire them with new hope. She had borne up with more physical courage than the mother and sister, Salie, who were said to be so close to nervous collapse that it was decided they should not go to the prison.

In the last few days, newspapers were denied a visit to the three men so they might not know the details of the efforts being made to save them. They spent much of their time with their pallid faces pressed against the cold steel bars asking passing guards with monotonous insistence: "Is there any news yet?"

Farina, more of the brooding type, was closely watched that he might not defeat the course of justice. The governor's failure to intervene was taken by Mrs. Dora Diamond and her two daughters, Bessie and Salie, to mean that their long and desperate battle through the courts and before the governor himself had failed. They were heart-broken this morning.

Too Much Speed, Says Henry Ford

Moderation and Temperance are the Keys to Individual Happiness the Flyover Philosopher Tells the World.

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Sudbury, Mass., April 30.—"Enjoy yourself; take life as it comes." This is Henry Ford's secret of happiness.

At the Wayside Inn, immortalized by the poet Longfellow, the world's richest man today in an interview gave his philosophy of happiness and the rules that make him ten years younger at 61.

"Moderation," he said, "and temperance in living are the keys to all individual happiness. "Don't exceed your capacity, mental or physical, by over-eating or over-working."

"The trouble with American civilization is its excessive speed and unnecessary high pressure. Americans are living too fast. "Take life as it comes. I enjoy myself all the time. I have schooled myself in a philosophy of optimism."

"The secret of bodily strength lies largely in an ability to relax. Rest is absolutely required by every man, although I rarely sleep over six hours. I love to walk and chop wood. "All my projects are fascinating. Diversification prevents staleness. Its too bad so many people don't realize the happiness that comes from work."

Middletown Men Praise Exchange

Members of the Kingston Dealers Used Car Exchange together with their salesmen held a banquet at McCabe's restaurant on Wall street Wednesday evening at which time four representatives from the Middletown exchange were present and explained how the exchange was working in that city. The Middletown members present were Mr. Quain, Buick dealer, and Mr. Mundy, Cadillac dealer, both of whom are enthusiastic Exchange men. They were accompanied by Mr. Townsend and Mr. Ledy, salesmen.

They gave a very interesting talk on how the exchange had worked in Middletown and how it had benefited the public as well as the automobile dealers of the city. Since the opening of the exchange in that town the public has accepted the exchange as a beneficial accessory to the automobile trade and have found that it has solved the used car problem. According to the representatives from Middletown the exchange had met with the hearty cooperation of the public which has found that it can deal with the exchange with the utmost confidence of a square deal and a guarantee of satisfaction. This hearty acceptance of the exchange has developed the Middletown used car problem into a smooth running machine where both the buyer and the seller may deal with confidence. From a dealer as well as a buyer's viewpoint the Middletown exchange has been a decided success.

County court convened Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock without a jury and another case was disposed of. Patsy Mayone, indicted for carrying a gun without a permit, changed his former plea of not guilty to guilty. Rosecoe Ellsworth appeared for Patsy, who resides in East Kingston. Patsy, born in Italy, is not a citizen. He was fined $50 or as an alternative could spend one day in jail for each $5 of the fine. He paid.

District Attorney Traver stated that in the case of The People vs. Samuel M. Post, he had tried to serve his witnesses, the most of whom were in New York city, but he had learned that the main witness in the case was ill in a hospital in Chicago and this would prevent him from trying the case.

As supreme court convenes next week, it is not likely that there will be much more criminal work taken up at this term of the county court. District Attorney Traver has disposed of several cases without trial at this term through pleas of guilty and other cases by trial so that the criminal calendar had been very materially reduced.

Court went into recess until 10 o'clock this morning.

Mazuka Is Held For Grand Jury

William Cole of Second Avenue Claims That While in Mazuka's Place He Was Drugged and Robbed—United States District Attorney Notified.

Frank Mazuka, who has a place on Murray street, was held to await the action of the next grand jury on a charge of drugging and robbing William Cole of Second Avenue, on the morning of April 18, after a hearing before Judge Robert G. Groves in police court this morning. At the close of the testimony Judge Groves entered an order that the minutes of the hearing be forwarded to the United States district attorney of the Southern district of New York, stating: "Let them go there and make a raid and clean up the place."

According to Cole's testimony this morning he had left his home early to do some shopping. He bought some salts in Connelly's drug store, some nails in J. T. Johnson's store, and a pair of shoes in Yallum's shoe store. Then he purchased some meat at Basch's butcher shop. After leaving the butcher shop with his purchases he started home and feeling chilly went into Mazuka's and ordered some liquor.

He said that he was served with a glass of liquor which was kept back of the bar. Then Mazuka treated to a glass and then he had a third glass of the liquor. He only drank part of the third glass, he said, when he began to feel dizzy and left the bar and dropped into a chair near the stove.

Cole said that before he lost consciousness he found Mazuka going through his pockets and helping himself to the $28 he had on his person. He was so paralyzed with what he had drunk, however, that he could not talk. Then he relapsed into unconsciousness and did not revive until about 5 o'clock that afternoon at his home, where he had been taken by Mazuka in Mazuka's automobile.

Mrs. Cole said that Mazuka brought her husband home about 2 o'clock that afternoon, but that her husband could not walk or talk. She pulled his hand and his ears to get him to talk but did not succeed. Then she got him to bed and placed wet cloths on his head. She said that Mazuka told her that when her husband came in to his place he noticed he had a pocketbook in his hip pocket. They then started to look for it but it had disappeared. One of her sons went out to the car and looked in it but could not find the pocketbook.

When Cole revived about 5 o'clock that afternoon he said Mazuka had his money and accompanied by his son went to Mazuka's place and demanded his money back but did not obtain it.

Two of Cole's sons also testified to Mazuka bringing their father home. John Zeeh, the soda water manufacturer, testified that he called at Mazuka's place to deliver some soft drinks and that when he entered he found Mazuka and Cole the only ones in the place. At that time, which was about 9:30 o'clock Saturday morning, Cole was sober. Zeeh said he was not in the place over five minutes after delivering the soda and receiving his money and then left. While there he did not see Cole have anything to drink.

Abram Basch was also called by Cole as a witness. It was in Basch's son's place that Cole said he had purchased his meat. He said that he had walked from the old cracker bakery on Hasbrouck avenue to the corner of Murray street with Abram Basch, but Basch on the witness stand said Cole was mistaken, as he had not seen him on April 18.

Attorney Chris J. Flanagan, who represented Mazuka, then called Anthony Smith as a witness. Smith testified that in company with Frank Wheeler of 31 East Strand, who is employed by Mazuka as a bartender, that about 12:30 o'clock that Saturday they had come to Mazuka's place and had some beer. When they entered Cole was not in the place, but came in a minute later. When Cole came in Smith said he was intoxicated. Cole had two short beers and then started to leave and nearly fell and Smith said he grabbed him by the arm to steady him. Smith said that Mazuka then took Cole home in his auto as they did not want Cole to be arrested for public intoxication on the street.

Smith's testimony was corroborated by Wheeler, the other witness called by Mazuka.

Mazuka did not make a statement in his own behalf and at the close of the testimony Judge Groves held him to await the action of the grand jury, and fixed bail in the sum of $1,000.

Aidala Case Goes Over Term

County Court Takes Recess Until May 4. After Disposing of Eighteen Cases—Trial of Samuel M. Post Also Held Over.

After the opening of county court this morning District Attorney Frederick G. Traver announced to the court that he had intended to begin the trial of Samuel M. Post, indicted for grand larceny in the town of Saugerties. Because of the illness of the complaining witness, Charles Lory, who is in a hospital in Chicago, he was compelled to request the trial be held over.

The case of The People against Anthony Aidala, indicted May 11, 1922, for assault in the second degree, was then moved. Frank W. Brooks, attorney for the defendant, stated that he had understood the case would be moved at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. However, he could not try the case at present because of the absence of witnesses of importance. It was an old case, the alleged offense having been committed October 19, 1922. The complaining witness was Joseph Agati, who had been traced to several places and he understood that he had been subpoenaed this morning by a deputy sheriff near Binghamton. There was a divorce suit in which Mrs. Aidala is plaintiff, begun after the indictment of Aidala, and the outcome might have a bearing on the charge against Aidala. District Attorney Traver said he had no official notice that the missing complaining witness had been found near Binghamton and therefore Mr. Brooks might know more about it than he did. It was finally agreed to send the case over to the June term of county court.

No other cases being ready, Judge Fowler told the jurors that they were discharged with thanks for their attendance. Eighteen cases had been disposed of due to their presence. The court officers were then discharged and court took a recess until Monday morning, May 4, at 10 o'clock.

Are to Wear Long and Short Sleeves

Models Stress Both Styles—Only Sleeveless Gowns for Formal Wear.

Individuality is the keynote of the new Chanel collection which nevertheless interprets all of the novel springtime themes, notes a Paris fashion writer in the New York Herald-Tribune. Every model that is designed by Chanel bears the hallmark of distinction. She ignores rumors of possible tendencies and quietly continues making gowns on her own characteristic lines, and these are invariably among the most sought after on the continent. Whether she makes a simple sports suit with straight workmanlike breeches under the neat wrap-over skirt, or a georgette crepe coat for afternoon wear that is covered with an elaborate embroidery of tiny steel beads, Chanel always gives that indescribable chic to every model that is typical of her house. Beauty is the leitmotif of the whole collection, yet the models are always practical.

Robes du soir are either elaborate or quite simple. Some are developed in metal lame with heavy incrustations of rich metal lace, while others are of simplest georgette or chiffon, depending merely on the charm of their cut, beauty of coloring, and the simple grace of various little scarves, tied shoulder straps and floating draperies. Lace is very much used for evening gowns in black, beige, green and in other colors, and it plays a considerable part in this section of the collection. Pearl and bead fringes are used, strings six to eight inches in length swaying spirally round a tunic and shorter ones covering a skirt in close serried rows.

The jumper dress occupies its usual pre-eminent place. Chanel uses shades of blue crepella and crepe de chine to carry it out with an effect of chic simplicity. Perhaps the most delightful jumper suit in the whole collection is made in bois de rose waterproof crepe de chine with steel runners fastening the pockets and a revers decollete which is at the side instead of the center front.

Abandons Sleeveless Gown. Like other houses, Chanel has abandoned the sleeveless gown for daytime this season. Instead this shows short sleeves some five or six inches long, some of them finished with handkerchief ties, some of them plain. Full-length sleeves outnumber all other types and they are generally practical and becoming qualities of the Chinese tub silk that is so much used for men's shirts.

Black and White Used. Black-and-white effects are noteworthy. Once more Chanel makes straight sack jackets to match printed gowns. She also has a black-and-white sack coat to wear with a plain black georgette crepe gown adorned with much fine plaiting. Red is as great a favorite with Chanel as it was last season. She shows an amusing red foulard gown with black spots dotted about it at irregular intervals, while the corsage is divided by narrow horizontal bands of piping some three inches apart.

Chanel shows her usual genius for coats, though she is making capes as well, both for day and evening wear, especially the short shoulder variety for daytime. The coats fit slightly at the waist and flare just a little in the skirt. Wide bands of dyed feathers trim the evening wraps this year.

Chanel still uses some of the shirred gathering that she made so popular nearly a year ago. It is equally effective in velvet and georgette.

The Jenny collection this season includes many of the little Parisian touches for which this designer has always been noted. She retains the slim, straight line with very little fullness, showing short skirts fully 16 inches off the ground, sometimes slashed into panels, but more often straight.

Her tailor-mades are severe and trim. Sometimes the blouses worn with them have high collars and they are invariably accompanied by narrow cravats. The coat is frequently piped and has collar and narrow cuffs of lacquered lac, either gold or silver, or bois de rose with a metallic finish. Some three-quarter coats are lined throughout with gold kid, giving a strikingly novel effect.

Lining Shows Down Front. A characteristic of the Jenny coats this season is a lining of chiffon or crepe de chine, either plain or printed, that shows down each front of the coat and turns back in wide revers, giving the effect of a separate undercoat rather than the lines of that introduced by Chanel last year. The revers fall on the lines of a jabot.

Sometimes a coat dress is made on these lines—when fastened it looks like a coat and when open like a coat and dress. In reality it is just a dress, for the apparent coat lining is in one piece with what is apparently a dress and forms a straight line from selvage to selvage with each border of the lining.

Yokes are very prominent in this collection, always in a contrasting material and color to the dress itself. Sometimes the yoke has a V piece of the same material in front which at the back is continued into long, thin ends looped into a bow, the ends falling nearly to the waist and edged with a narrow binding of the material of which the dress is made.

Another variation of this type of dress has long sleeves in contrast to the dress. These sleeves are lengthened from the shoulder into scarf ends that cross behind to form a yoke, and twisted in front of the throat and have the ends hanging back over each shoulder. Navy blue and yellow are a favorite color combination for this type of gown. Navy and almond green, navy and rose black and white and brown and beige are also quite frequently used.

Head fringes are frequently used on tailored dresses, appearing in little tails at the back of the yoke, at the wrists of the sleeves and also on the dress itself. There are many tunics, often irregular in line at the hem, some being longer at the back, others in front, while several have an open front and leave off at the waist line in the back.

Evening gowns are very richly beaded and embroidered, head fringe being particularly prominent. One in pale mauve chiffon is draped in geometrical designs with the finest silk soutache braid which forms an elaborate fringe all round the tunic, sloping down over the straight underskirt at the back. Another, in two shades of orchid, is richly embroidered in artificial silk and beads.

DIPLOMATIC EMPARRASMENT.

Foreign diplomats and politicians were tolerant enough of our lady governors, judges, mayors and members of Congress—three or four thousand miles away. The "Mistral" glaucous may have mystified but at the same time amused them. Doubtless they wondered why we were not content to let the fair sex continue to run things indirectly or from the background—a process which they themselves have long been acquainted with, at least to some extent—but our advances into the direct method did not disturb them, being no picnic of theirs. The appointment of a woman to be Secretary of the American legation in Switzerland, however, has caused a flutter, embarrassing complications being feared.

Not that it is a bolt out of a clear sky, for Bolshevik Hungary appointed as representative in Switzerland a woman who failed to reach her post before her government was overthrown, and Soviet Russia actually sent a lady Bolshevik as Minister to Sweden. Nor is the disturbance caused by any prevailing opinion that a woman is essentially unfitted to succeed at a diplomatic post. The foreseen embarrassments have to do with matters of etiquette and precedence, which are of enormous importance in Europe. What, for example, is to be done with the husband of a lady diplomatic secretary? "Where," it is asked, "will he fit in at official receptions and dinners? Will he have the right to be presented at Court, and if so will he be out-ranked by the wives of junior gentlemen secretaries?" On the side of the Atlantic we would hardly expect the American husband of a diplomatic secretary to fight with the wives of European diplomatic secretaries for all that is coming to him in the matter of precedence, but in Europe they are not so sure, and the possible complications are awaited with grave concern.

PROTECTED WILD LIFE.

One result of the protection of wild life in the Yellowstone National Park is that visitors are given rare opportunity to study at close range animals and birds that have forgotten their old fear of death at the hands of man. Referring to the bears, which are now almost as tame as domestic dogs, the superintendent of the Park declared in a recent article that no other animal interests the visiting public to the same extent, and that they "seriously compete as an attraction with geysers and waterfalls and magnificent canyons." It seems that the Yellowstone bears have no fear of the visitors who come in automobiles from all parts of the country, loafs about and eating their meals right under the tourists' curious eyes and not even shying at cameras.

The following is an official list of the animals that may now be seen in the Yellowstone Park: Antelope, 440; black bears, 600; grizzlies, 120; buffaloes, 1,019; caribou, 2,000 to 5,000; elk, 25,000; deer, 18,000; goats, 1,550; moose, 540; and sheep, 7,500. "The National Park Service," writes the Superintendent, "is a great factor in the West in game conservation. Our parks are game sanctuaries, summer feeding ranges, and breeding grounds. Game overflows into adjacent national forests, where it is available under generally, not not always, proper restrictions as to bag limits and open seasons fixed by State law." The saving of the buffalo from threatened complete extinction was mainly due to conservation in the Yellowstone, which, in the lean '80's, fortunately had the largest of the three or four domesticated herds still in existence.

According to an advertising publication, "hundreds of new words are needed today" for the use of writers of advertising copy who are "dealing with ideas and find no words in the English language to express them." Probably there would be a considerably less recognition of such a need if there were a larger acquaintance with the rich language of the Orient. The new word "luxury" is a good example. It is called for brings to mind the luxury of the Orient, and the word "luxury" is a good example of the word "luxury" in the English language.

with but a hazy knowledge at the best of the vast multitude of laws already crowding the statute books.

Following a similar decision by a Northern court, Judge O'Brien of Georgia is reported to have ruled that "a man has a right under certain circumstances to place his wife across his lap and speak her name." Apparently there are "certain circumstances" under which even Southern chivalry is staggered.

That Body of Yours
By James W. Barton, M. D.

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act.)
THE THIN CHILD.

Parents are very anxious about some parts of the training of their children in health matters. They endeavor to watch the most important point—the diet. So the youngsters are encouraged to drink plenty of milk, to eat vegetables and various ways, plenty of bread and butter, cereals, fruits, and a little candy and meat. There could hardly be any improvement on this, and yet parents are worried when they see that their youngsters are below the normal weight for their age and height.

Well, although the food is the important thing, nevertheless a number of other factors enter into the matter. If the youngster is allowed to remain up late at night, to go to crowded movies, and stay until the place closes for the night, then there is going to be physical and mental fatigue, that is most wearing on the entire body. Further, that youngster often becomes a light or treacherous sleeper.

Now the nervous energy dissipated by this lack of sleep, is one of the most frequent causes of underweight in children. Of course there may be some underlying cause. Bad teeth, tonsils, or adenoids may be a factor, and with the correction of these defects, there is an immediate increase in weight. If the mother will go back a little ways in her mind, she will remember that when the youngster was small that there were morning and afternoon periods of an hour or more, when the youngster was put in the cradle, bed or carriage and expected to sleep, to rest completely.

This same method should be applied to the underweight youngster of any age. It may be difficult on account of school in the morning, but immediately after school in the afternoon, he should lie down for a full half hour in a quiet dark room. He will thus get the rest just when it will count for most.

Exercise for these youngsters is just a question. He must get some exercise, light exercise outdoors, if he is to secure a healthy appetite. If he overdoes his exercise, by playing too long and too hard, he not only wears out his tissues, but his sleep becomes broken. So by giving plenty of rest, and spreading the meal hours a good way apart, you will get your best results.

On this date in the year 1745, was fought the historic battle of Fontenoy, which was fought in Belgium between the British under the Duke of Cumberland and the French under the Count de Saxe. King Louis of France also being on the spot. The British, aided by the Hanoverians, were winning the battle, and the French commanders were in despair, when Saxe remembered the reserves of Irish troops with the French, and throwing them into action, they swept the English from the field in disorder.

An old and well known poem entitled "Fontenoy" commemorates the Irish victory on this field.

Khula was an Arabian heroine, who, in the famous battle of Yarmouk, between the Greeks and the Arabs in the seventh century, rallied the Arabs when they were driven back by the furious onset of the Greeks, and with several other of the chief women took command of the army.

HIGHLAND

Highland, April 30.—To say the reception Wednesday evening to the Rev. and Mrs. R. Braunstein and new members of the M. E. Church was a success would be putting it in light form. It was a very pleasant social event. Members of the church and congregation were present in large numbers. The room was decorated with plants and flowers and the welcome extended by ad to pastor and wife and new members was most cordial. At the conclusion of the formalities Mrs. R. H. Decker opened the assemblage to order and in few chosen words called upon J. W. Foster, Loren Osterhoudt and Harry Van Devort who gave interesting remarks and in the course of their remarks welcomed the return of the Rev. and Mrs. Braunstein. Highland needs his counsel, his energy and his fellowship. The pastor responded to all addresses and heartily reciprocated all the good words that were said and everyone enjoyed his stories and his eloquence. With increasing pleasure Epworth orchestra under leadership of Elmer Fisher and Dorothy Churchill, pianist, with the other instruments gave fine music. Adolph Crom, violinist gave fine selections. Miss Martie Schantz was his accompanist. In conclusion delicious refreshments were served under the direction of Mrs. J. P. Whitley and Miss Bertha Dimsey. Mrs. John K. Fisher poured coffee and some time passed in social manner. At a late hour all left with expressions of pleasure and this reception will never be lost sight of.

Missionary Society held a very interesting meeting at home of Mrs. J. R. Morris Wednesday. Officers were elected for ensuing year and every thing points to prosperous times. Refreshments were served.

Mid week service is one of the very interesting affairs in the M. E. Church. Large attendance and the short sermons by the pastor are much enjoyed and will do every one a great deal of good.

Sunday day light saving time went into effect for the summer and everything will now be that until fall. Mrs. Pratt had some friends in for cards Wednesday last.

Miss Martie Schantz has as her guest, Miss Marguerite Sahler of Millbrook.

Odd Fellows' Lodge attended services in Presbyterian Church Sunday evening.

Masonic Lodge card party was a success and all who went had a good time. Many not card players helped out, but did not attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard E. Wilcox and Miss Mary Carpenter spent a few days in New York city the past week.

G. H. Mackey and Captain R. H. Decker were in Clintondale last week, calling on relatives.

Mrs. Charles DuBois and Mrs. Harry Wezenaar were shoppers in New York city last week.

The O. E. S. held a meeting Tuesday evening. They initiated candidates, also balloted on two. The order at present is getting in a number of out of town members, and they seem to display a great deal of zeal and enthusiasm, which is a good thing to have in the order.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lent had guests Sunday from New Paltz. The dance held Friday evening in St. Augustine's Hall was well patronized and all had a very enjoyable time.

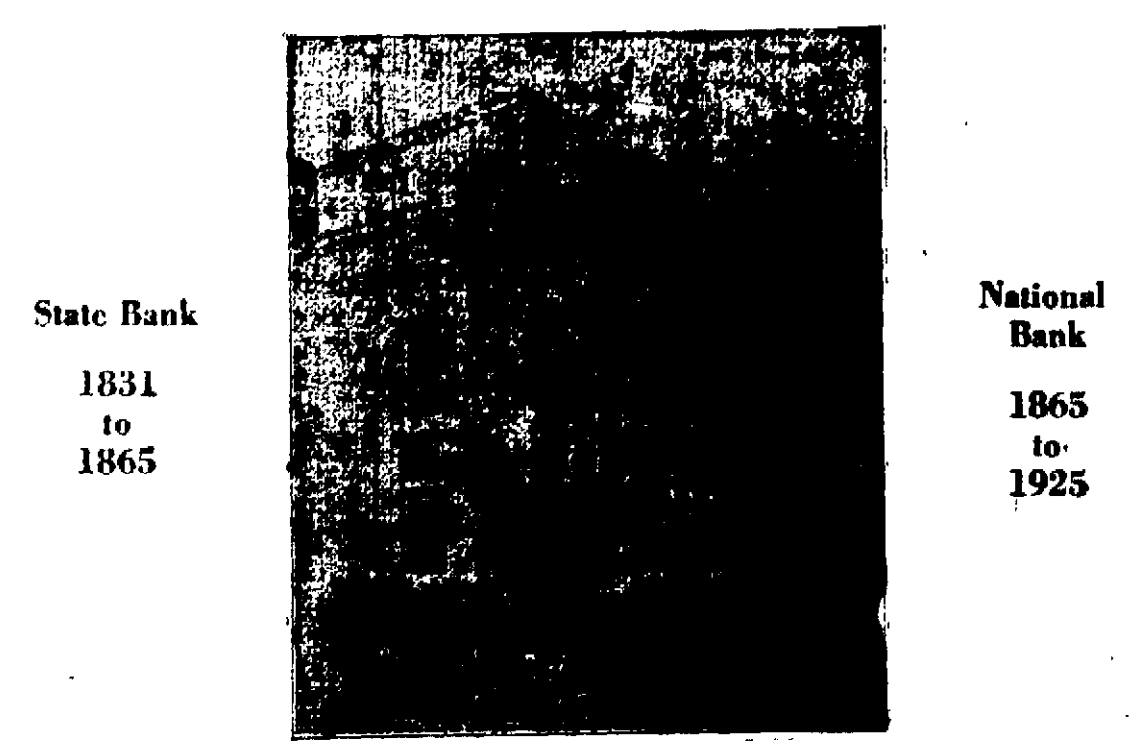

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Maynard have returned home after weeks spent in the south.

The Boy Scouts, under the Rev. Richard Braunstein's direction, had a grand hike Saturday. They left in the morning and had their dinner in the mountains at Rock House, and enjoyed every moment of the day, and they had good appetite for mid-day meal.

Do not forget that May 10 is Mothers' Day and the Auxiliary Club is requested to meet in the church parlors at 7 o'clock for attending divine service in a body. Let every member make special effort to be present. Show loyalty to church and pastor.

Features at Boy Scout Dance

Five thousand dollars reward is offered to any medium who will get a result while H. W. Rogers is present and that offer made by Mr. Rogers has been standing for years. None of the spiritualistic mediums have dared to accept this challenge. Without a doubt this feature of the program at the Boy Scout dance tomorrow night will be one of the biggest things ever seen in Kingston. Mr. Rogers has spent years of his life studying the methods used by "mediums" for fooling the public and has become one of the most expert in the art, but has always used his talent exposing the trickery of these so-called seers.

Mr. Rogers, who has been termed "the master of the mediums," will give this "expose" of spiritualism at the armory and will receive messages, do slate writing, cause hands to appear and furniture to move right before you. He will have a committee of five of our most respected citizens with him who will see that he receives no outside help. This demonstration must not be mistaken for the usual "sleight of hand" performances but a genuine "Frolic With the Ghosts."

With the above program will appear Harry Lazarus, owner and manager of the Auditorium Theater. Mr. Lazarus has a wonderful baritone voice and worked in grand opera for a number of years. Other songsters will also appear on the program, all of whom have sung over WDBZ. Leon Carey and Jolly Jack Roblou both have a big following. Mr. Carey will sing ballads and popular songs, while "Jolly Jack" gives the best Harry Lauder imitation you ever heard. Next Miss Mildred Messinger, who is always popular and one of the most willing helpers the Scouts have.

The dance will follow with music by those two home orchestras, viz: Malsenholder's WDBZ concert and dance orchestra and Zucca's singing orchestra. Could anybody even think of dancing to the strains of better music than these boys from our own city can make?

From everywhere the Boy Scout headquarters have been receiving congratulations for the determined "band they have taken in keeping every cent of both the profits and expenses of this affair right here at home and why not? How many tickets do these outside entertainers or orchestras sell for us and how much do you suppose they would give toward any Kingston project? Not a red cent.

Remember this, every ticket sold brings the Boy Scout just that much nearer their goal of purchasing a camp site of their own. Come out and enjoy an evening's good time and at the same time boost the Scouts.

Do not get the dates mixed. The Boy Scout dance is tomorrow night (May 1st) and the price is one dollar.

Card of Thanks.

All in the Looks

Betty is four years old and has a baby sister. Betty's grandmother was playing with her little sister, and the baby pulled grandma's nose, to which grandma, unthoughtfully said: "Oh, you little pup!" And much to her surprise Betty answered: "She's not a pup, grandma; she just looks like one."

Glazed Cretone

Starch is applied to the surface of cretone to produce the shiny, glazed effect. The material is starched and put through cylindrical hot rolls. It is not practical for an amateur to do this. Cretone glazed in this way is chintz, and the material is not washable.

Lacks Brain Power

The Massena partridge is known as the "fool quail," because of its failure to sense danger and make an escape from the hunter. It is a bird of Mexico, rather than of the United States, within which it is found only in western Texas, Arizona and New Mexico.

STROMBERG DOUBLED
MILEAGE OF A FORD CARRoad Test Made by Lewis Brown Showed Great Gas Saving.

A road test of the working of the Stromberg carburetor in comparison with the regular stock equipment of a Ford car was made on Wednesday by Lewis Brown of the Brown Auto Supply Company, cooperating with the James Millard and Son Company, which showed remarkable efficiency on the part of the Stromberg and a nearly doubled mileage to the gallon of gasoline.

A stock Ford car was supplied by the Millard Company, local dealers in Ford. Starting on Albany avenue near the West Shore crossing, with the Ford in normal condition and a previously measured two quarts of gasoline in a sealed receptacle, the car was driven to Schenck's corner and then to and through Glisco, where after having run seven and two-tenths miles, the gasoline was exhausted.

The car was brought to Kingston, equipped with a Stromberg carburetor, supplied with another two quarts of gasoline and started from the same spot on Albany avenue from which the other trip began. It ran to Schenck's, to and through Glisco and Flatbush and stopped near the City Home, exactly 14 miles.

These figures on their face show an economy of $4.44 per cent, to be credited to the Stromberg, but when it is considered that there are steep hills in the last seven miles and also that a truck ploughed the road going up the hill from Flatbush, making it necessary to run the Ford on low gear for about 200 yards, it is apparent that the showing is much more favorable than the mere figures seem to indicate.

The Brown Auto Supply Company.

local distributor of Stromberg products, which include a shock absorber as well as the carburetor, finds the showing made in the demonstration highly gratifying. John W. Martin of Jack's Garage and a number of interested automobile owners witnessed the demonstration and were delighted with it.

RIDING ACADEMY NOW HAS A FINE FIELD.

The Kingston Riding Academy, located at 16 to 18 Warren street, has recently leased the field on Lucas avenue between Green street and Washington avenue, formerly known as Corer's skating pond. The field has been fitted up as a first class polo field and several jumps have been installed that can be used by the riders. Tests have been conducted on the field for a few horses as the present stable capacity is not sufficient to accommodate all the mounts.

The Riding Academy has also purchased a small size show horse which stands about 14 inches high and has been introduced to the small mount to the children. The horse is a bay and is making a large hit with the youthful riders as well as the older riding public.

Children classes will be held every Saturday morning at 10 o'clock and all young horsemen are invited to ride and will be given special attention by the instructors, who are competent men of great riding ability.

The public has been invited by the academy to inspect the stable grounds and fields. Any person owning private mounts are invited to use the riding field that the academy has leased for their pleasure but are kindly requested to try a few days with the academy.

Proposed BoostCommission Orders Investigation Into Proposal of Five Eastern Railroads to Increase Rates on Newspapers Carried as Baggage.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, April 30.—The interstate commerce commission has ordered an investigation of the proposal of five eastern railroads to increase their rates on newspapers carried in baggage cars.The railroads involved are the Pennsylvania lines, (east and west)
the Baltimore and Ohio, the Baltimore Chesapeake and Atlantic, the Reading and the Western Maryland.The proposed increases amount to an approximate advance of 66 per cent.
In announcing its inquiry, the commission said an example of the proposed increases was given by the Pennsylvania road which planned to raise its rate from 30 cents to 50 cents per hundred pounds in the territory east of Pittsburgh and Buffalo, including those cities.The same advance would apply to the territory west of Pittsburgh while an advance from sixty cents to $1 per hundred pounds would be asked for the transportation of newspapers between these two territories. This latter increase would apply to the shipment of Buffalo, Pittsburgh and other eastern newspapers into cities in Ohio and beyond, or to Cleveland and Columbus papers shipped into New York and Pennsylvania.OFFICE

New Standard Six Coach

$1295

f. o. b. factory
[with full-size balloon tires]STUDEBAKER has $60,000,000 invested in plants in which Studebaker cars are manufactured complete, including all bodies, both open and closed. No other large automobile manufacturer that we know of makes all of his own bodies.This means that Studebaker saves the profit of outside parts makers and body-builders. Thus the price of this new coach is not burdened by an extra profit. At $1295 it represents a value no other automobile manufacturer can equal.And no other manufacturer can offer a coach of such fine quality at the price. For every coach that Studebaker builds carries with it traditions of fine craftsmanship that have existed in Studebaker plants since 1852.Compare this coach with other cars which sell at much higher prices. This will prove that Studebaker values are unequalled.THE VAN MOTOR CO., Inc.

Military Cadets From Norwich University With Posen Scout Mountains for Abductor—Believe Girl Is Dead.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Granville, Vermont, April 30.—Armed with carbines and mounted on cavalry horses, military cadets from Norwich University—300 strong—took the field today in search for Earl Woodward, ex-convict and abductor of 11 year old Lucille Chatterton.

The cadets, under command of Lieutenant John C. McDonald, army officer, will use military strategy in scouring the almost inaccessible retreats of the mountains of Braintree and Roxbury.

Use of the troops was granted by Charles A. Plumley, president of the academy, upon the urgent request of Attorney General Frank C. Archibald, who is in charge of the search for the elusive Woodward.

The Norwich cadets, crack troopers of the state although every man in the outfit is a student, was prepared to trail the outlaw until he is run down and captured.

The cadets, in a drizzling rain, rode off the parade ground at Norwich in relays of 50 troopers each.

The first 50 men, deployment, spread out fan-shaped fashion at the foot of Cram Mountain. Leaving their horses at the base the cadets advanced in skirmish order through the timberland. They were supported by a second fifty men.

Every cadet is a crack shot and an expert horseman. The entire outfit carried ball cartridges for their carbines. Some of the cadets were equipped with the regulation saber for use in close contact with Woodward.

Both the cavalry and artillery units at the university participated in the hunt.

The troops were aroused today at their barracks by the assembly call. Equipment was made ready.

Meanwhile, Lieutenant MacDonald, the United States cavalry man in charge of the outfit, went into conference with President Plumley of the university and officers of the cadets. Detailed maps of Cram Mountain and the surrounding territory were brought out and the plan of campaign was outlined.

Woodward is known to be armed and to be well versed in woodland life. On all sides the manhunt was admitted to be a hazardous undertaking for the youthful cadets well trained as they are.

Orders were to get Woodward "dead or alive."

The request for the military cadets was made by the attorney general only after it became apparent that a larger force than the seven posses of police and citizens, already in the woods, was needed to tract Woodward.

Meanwhile, on the summit of the Cram Mountain, Walter Chatterton, father of the missing girl, sits alone with gun across his knees determined, he said, to kill Woodward, the young man he befriended, on sight.

Traces of Woodward have been found in the wood but nothing of the girl, supposed to be with him. Some fear she is either murdered or died of exposure.

Footprints from an abandoned school house on Cram Mountain were declared to be those of Woodward. They were followed and led to tangled under brush. It was here the posses resumed their search today.

Dr Cady Opens Training in Nature Studies for Scouts

DR. BERTHA CHAPMAN CADY.

Dr. Bertha Chapman Cady, well-known naturalist who has recently become affiliated with the Girl Scouts, 670 Lexington Avenue, New York city, conducted a Nature Training Week at the Girl Scout Little House in Washington, D. C. which was held for Girl Scout leaders.

This is the first of a group of nature training weeks to be held by the Girl Scouts throughout the country and is the result of the adoption of a new and extensive nature program by the national organization.

The course included informal talks on the method of teaching nature study to the Girl Scout, trips to the parks and museums, and talks by recognized authorities on this subject.

"We are aware of the inability of the average adult to see clearly or to describe accurately what she has seen," said Dr. Cady in an interview yesterday. "It is for this reason—quite aside from the specific Girl Scout object to bring girls into closer touch with outdoor life—that this introductory step in nature observation is placed so early in the main plan of our nature program."

"Not alone is the head trained for better thinking and remembering, but the senses are made more keen and the power of observation developed. There is no intention of requiring any very difficult task of the child. Rather is it to be a calling into consciousness of things she already knows."

"By this careful attention to some one familiar object she becomes aware of the difference between casual, partial knowledge carelessly expressed and a real bit of accurate observation well expressed. This in itself is a valuable lesson to the girl at this early period, for there are all too few opportunities offered her to acquire this habit."

Dr. Cady's nature program requires a Tenderfoot Girl Scout to be able to tell about one pet animal. The second class Girl Scout must know three of the following subjects before she can pass her test: eight rock minerals, eight insects, five wild plants, five cultivated, four trees and three shrubs, four birds, three land animals, three water animals and five stars. For a Girl Scout to pass her first-class test she must have won any of the following merit badges: Tree finder, flower finder, garden or wild, animal, land or water, birds, insects, rock tapper, star gazer.

Makes Old Auto Look New With Cheesecloth and New Kind of Finish

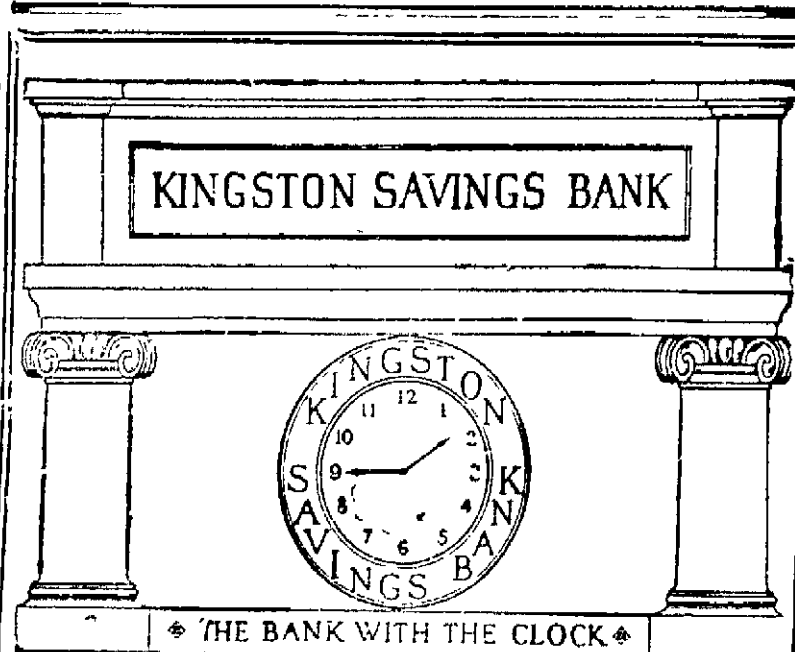

Put On In 20 Minutes, Requires No Rubbing.

Here's the newest thing in automobile finishes. A high polish without the slightest rubbing. A well known chemist who has tried of rubbing his own car, worked out a remarkable formula that produced a new kind of liquid finish that is wiped on with a piece of cheesecloth. Immediately the old car looks new.

This new finish has been called Fax. You can finish your whole car with Fax in 20 minutes. It dries within an hour and gives a high polish that makes your car look as if it just came from the factory. Just of all, Fax finish lasts for three or four months and is waterproof and dustproof. It helps preserve the original paint job and keeps your car out of the paint shop. Sounds too good to be true but read the proposition of the distributors.

So that you can demonstrate the wonderful effects of Fax on your own car without expense, every dealer is authorized to give you a can to try. Continue Present Prices of Milk

League Directors Recommend Present
Fluid Milk Prices for May—1,500
New League Contracts Since February 1, 1925.

The board of directors of the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association, Inc. meeting in New York last week recommended that the present basis prices of fluid milk and cream be continued during May. Slight reductions were voted in the prices of Class III-A and III-B milk used in the manufacture of sterilized evaporated whole milk or sweetened whole condensed milk and milk chocolate and whole milk powder. An increase of 10c per 100 lbs. was recommended in the price of Class III-C milk which is used in the manufacture of certain kind of hard cheese.

The complete schedule of basic prices for May as recommended by the league is:

Class I, $2.80—milk sold as fluid or sold as sweet cream when the skim milk is sold in fluid form.

Class II-A, $1.90—milk made and sold as sweet cream when the skim milk is utilized in the manufacture of various by products or is sold to the farmer. In such cases certain differentials are charged.

Class II-B, $2.05—cream, condensed milk and homogenized mixtures and certain cheeses.

Class II-C, $2.00—soft cheeses.

Class III-A, $1.80—sterilized evaporated whole milk, sweetened whole condensed milk, milk chocolate.

Class III-B, $1.80—milk used in the manufacture of whole milk powder.

Class III-C, $1.70—milk used in the manufacture of Swiss, Limburger, Muenster and other similar cheeses.

The prices for Class IV-A and IV-B, namely milk made into butter and cheese to be determined in the usual manner on the basis of per daily market prices for the month.

This is the first time that dairymen of this territory have been in position to maintain the price of fluid milk through the first months of the flush period at a level established in the shortage months. The league's report on market conditions indicated that the present level of milk prices to farmers is justified, and is even well below the present cost of milk production.

Because of their organization league dairymen have been able to help stabilize the fluid markets and at the same time have had no difficulty in caring for their share of the surplus. Up to date price cutting on the part of unorganized groups has not been sufficient to create any general disturbance in the fluid markets. League farmers report that their shipments of fluid milk and cream into New York city from league plants at present are approximately 5,000 cans higher per day than a year ago. Reports issued to members of the association show that the league is enjoying a very healthy growth in membership at the present time. More than 1,500 new contracts have been accepted since February 1st.

Tall, Thin Women Wear Best Fluffy or Curly Summer Furs

A thin girl should not wear a clipped fur, as its sleekness seems to emphasize her angularity. The very slender girl who is buying summer fur should keep this in mind and choose a shaggy or curly fur.

KINGSTON SAVINGS BANK

Kingston, New York.

To the Public:

You are cordially invited to attend the opening of our new Bank on Saturday, May 2nd, 1925, from 2 until 9 o'clock.

A handsome souvenir will be given to each of our guests as a remembrance of this occasion.

Very sincerely yours,

KINGSTON SAVINGS BANK.

FIRST HOME OF BANK

In the recent enlargement of the Kingston Savings Bank the Trustees of the Bank have furnished to the depositors of the Bank a larger, more commodious and more convenient place for transacting business.

The depositors, who really are the owners of the Bank, are entitled to these conveniences which have been conservatively furnished to them.

A Savings Bank differs from what is known as a discount Bank or a Trust Company in that the net earnings belong to the depositors and are carried to the surplus of the Bank, the property of the depositors, and add to the security of the deposits and not paid in dividends to stockholders.

There is a broad distinction between a Savings Bank and other institutions in that a Savings Bank is what its name implies, while in other institutions it is a business enterprise.

None of the Trustees receive a salary other than those who give their time and assist in the management of the bank.

No other fruit can quite touch them for breakfast!

The average breakfast menu is largely made up of foods which are rich in nutriment but lacking in the bulk and body needed to keep them moving through the alimentary canal.

Prunes supply the cellulose or tender fruit tissue so necessary to provide this bulk and insure the proper breakfast balance—plus the mineral salts, natural fruit sugars and vitamins which make them so healthful and tasty.

Serve Prunes often—for their wholesomeness, economy and fine flavor! And be sure you get the best Prunes—sweet, plump, thin-skinned Sunsweet Prunes from the famous California orchards—selected and packed by the growers themselves.

You'll be especially pleased with Sunsweet Prunes in our new, sanitary 2 lb. carton. Your grocer can supply you. Order a carton today and see how good they are.

ANDES GAS RANGES

AN ANDES OVEN NEVER FAILS

Most women mix cakes, puddings, etc., from a recipe but they guess at the heat needed to bake them.

The Heat Regulator on an Andes Range takes the guess-work out of cooking. It keeps your oven at the proper temperature for the food you are cooking and never fails to produce desired results.

There are many other ad-antages we would like to explain to you personally, such as slide-door oven racks that bring the hot dishes out of the oven without burning the hands, and thermo-safety doors, ventilated flue and life long construction.

Then there is the special slotted cast iron bottom, the wonderful design and careful construction that has produced an oven that is absolutely perfect.

Last Meeting of The Hi-Y Club

Wednesday morning, a short program was given by four members of the senior class of the Kingston High School, consisting of a recitation, "Ma and the Auto," (by Edgar Gault), was presented by Elizabeth Champlin; a monologue, "Daniel in the Lion's Den," (by Shoemaker), was given by Ruth Leventhal; a presentation, "The White House Kitchen in 1862," was given by Hilda Lockwood; a presentation, "Back to the Bush," (by Stephen Leacock), was given by Charles Ellis.

Wednesday evening, the last meeting of the Hi-Y Club, for this year, was held at the Y. M. C. A., newly elected officers for the coming year presided over the meeting.

The Kingston Hi-Y Club is a group of some seventy-five high school boys who meet every Wednesday evening at six o'clock at the Y. M. C. A. The president of the club presides over the meetings. The meetings consist of a brief meal served by the Hi-Y Auxiliary. After the minutes of the previous meeting are read there is a short devotional period consisting of a selection from the Bible read by a member of the club, after which he offers a short prayer. The remainder of the evening is given to the speaker. After the meeting has adjourned the members of the club retire to another room and hold interesting discussions under the leadership of Mr. Hall, Boys' Secretary of the Y. M. C. A.

THE CAPE IS UP

TO NEW TRICKS.

(By Eleanor Gunn.)

Isn't it just like fashion to resurrect the cape, after having gone to endless trouble to wean us away from it. The utilitarian cape was really sacrificed to line, but having discovered that a cape could still be a cape, though it fitted about the shoulders and throat, interest was immediately revived in it.

In fact, the outstanding feature of the new capes is a fitted and clearly defined shoulder line. In a few instances—particularly in the silk models—shirring is introduced at the neckline, at the back, but in the main, the treatment is flat and tailored as a coat.

A Cape in Spite of Its Flounce—and a French One, Too.

Several particularly attractive versions of the tailored type are made in full length gown formation with seamings piped in contrasting color, as suitable decoration. One example of this order is developed in green jessena, with natural colored pipings.

The panel-inset theme is also used with good effect. This device lends itself particularly well in the ribbed silks, showing the reverse use of the ribs of the silk. An attractive cloth model introduced a series of half-length panels extending from waist to hemline, with a buckle decoration on each adding an attractive detail.

Collar treatments are interesting and varied, ranging from the simple turned-back "small" effect to an effective soft handling of a full length stole idea.

The model above was sketched in Paris, and proves conclusively that a cape may also have that most desirable of all things at the moment—a flounce.

Painted Designs on Dress Fabrics

Paris Designer Achieves Bizarre Effects in Chic Spring Models.

Renee specializes in painted kasha and jersey cloth with cubist and geometrical designs in her new spring models. She features satin and crepe de chine blouses of every length, says a Paris correspondent in the New York Herald-Tribune, that are painted with blocks like the wooden toy bricks a child plays with, and have, in addition, a group of animals, such as a pair of monkeys or elephants, painted on one side. These are difficult to describe with any hope of conveying the right impression, but they are bizarre and attractive.

The main color of Renee's collection is gray. She uses it in suitings and covert coatings for tailor-made coats, some short and some three-quarter length. She also uses much gray jersey cloth and kasha, painted in odd designs, but always in the most discreet shadings. Beige, too, is prominent, as are the lovely shades of brown, of which Renee has always been so fond. She uses black, bottle and Robin Hood green, almond green, bois de rose, navy blue and a light sapphire, rose color, red and apricot.

Another innovation of Renee's this season is her return to the use of taffetas, which have not been the light of day since 1915. She has the most delightful model in bottle green reps, the coat fastening with a bow at the side of the neck, being heavily strapped with green taffeta. The dress that accompanies it is of taffeta, fairly full as far as the skirt is concerned and trimmed with some strapping of the reps, including a narrow panel down the center front that is trimmed with a row of small buttons to match.

There is a charming taffeta tailor-made in navy blue, with a white satin blouse, and one of the most admired models is of black taffeta, with a three-quarter-length sack coat trimmed with a wide border of narrow soutache braid, alternating black and brown, the same appearing at the hem of the black taffeta dress.

Many small buttons are used as trimming; also much strapping, applique of another material and due inset work, often of taffeta on reps or some other fabric. Braid, too, is used, and there is an attractive straight black gown, trimmed from the underarm level to the hem with horizontal groups of four or five narrow rows alternating with one wide band of black cire braid.

New Paris Silhouette in Chartreuse Satin

The model shows one of the latest Paris fashions. It is a Lanvin idea in chartreuse satin with an entirely new silhouette, pearl cabochon trimming.

White Draws Fashion's Approval for Season

At every exhibition of fashions for spring, white stands out conspicuously as the shade destined for a pronounced vogue. Sport dresses, afternoon frocks, evening gowns and coats and wraps for every occasion are developed in white materials of varied textures. The ribbed silks like faille and bengaline are frequently employed in the fashioning of smart little one and two-piece frocks.

Kasha, cashmere, flannel and fabrics of similar character are used for coats, while the loveliest evening gowns are developed in lustrous satin finished crepe, faille and chiffon.

Recently an exclusive specialty shop emphasized in a most interesting display of new models the importance of white evening frocks, culled with touches of gold in the form of delicate embroidery in metal threads, fine beading, a bit of gold lace or a piping of gold ribbon.

The simple sports frocks are in many instances of white or the faint pastel shades.

Watch Fashion

At one time it was a fashion to inscribe gifts of jewelry with the letters A. E. U., which from the Greek word meaning always, or forever. When the fashion died people forgot the significance of the letters.

lasting health habits...

The day of all days to start new health habits

Millions of folks are devoting this day to our precious youngsters. The President, high government officials and earnest people in every community are working for the

'Child's Bill of Rights'

which demands that every child shall be born under proper conditions, live in hygienic surroundings, be properly nourished and receive efficient medical attention and primary instruction in hygiene and good health.

This is the day of all days to begin giving your children the priceless protection of Lifebuoy Health Soap.

If every child in this city would use the Lifebuoy Wash-up Chart and wash with Lifebuoy habitually and frequently from now on there would be an amazing decrease in sickness.

Because Lifebuoy provides a scientific means of getting rid of the chief cause of sickness—of removing from clogged pores the grime and sticky moisture in which germs thrive and multiply.

Teach your children this fascinating game

By sending for the Lifebuoy Wash-up Chart you can make a game of cleanliness that children enter into with all their youthful enthusiasm. Teachers say it's the most practical, worth-while health aid that has ever been used in the schools. It completely changes the attitude of children toward washing and bathing as the record is kept day by day and week by week.

If your children are not getting the great benefit of this Clean Hands Health Campaign in their school—

Send for a Wash-up Chart

We will promptly send a Wash-up Chart on which your boy or girl keeps a daily record of his washings and baths for four weeks.

You will find that the Wash-up Chart will interest your children in

How I should wash
Why I should wash
When I should wash
without the customary nagging from you.

Children love Lifebuoy

Mothers have learned that health habits of cleanliness can be taught to children as much easier if Lifebuoy Health Soap is provided. For here is a soap that children love.

They like its color; they prefer its clean antiseptic smell to that of perfumed soaps and they like its abundant, creamy, quick lather that gets off all the dirt and gently removes germs.

LIFEBUOY HEALTH SOAP

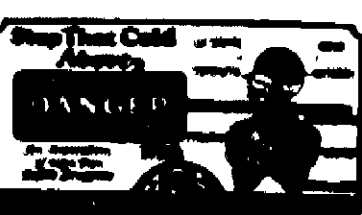

"FLAPPER" A REFLECTION ON THE FAIR SEX.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Tallahassee, Fla., April 30.—A. H. Branch, long, lean and rugged representative of Liberty county, in the Florida legislature undertook to convince his colleagues and especially the members of the house committee on Indian affairs, that there was nothing facetious about his resolution to make it illegal to refer to ladies as "flappers" in this state. "This is a serious matter," Branch declared. "They made a lot of fun out of it, but I'm going to get a favorable report on the resolution from the Indian affairs committee and I think it will go through the house. The word flapper is a reflection on the fair sex and the use of it should be stopped in Florida as an example to the rest of the United States."

The Indian affairs committee is not hardened with work, the only other bill it has under consideration is a measure to compel the placing of wooden Indians in front of all cigar stores.

Branch's flapper resolution is the second measure he has introduced this season. The first one provided for immediate adjournment of the legislature without pay and the repeal of all laws "except the constitution and the golden rule."

Fertile Spots

"A great many manufacturers would undoubtedly find that by limiting their efforts to more circumscribed areas and intensifying their sales activities in such areas they would not only reduce their selling costs but would probably produce a larger volume of business."

HERBERT HOOVER,
U. S. Secretary of Commerce.

National advertisers should study markets rather than the map.

Picking the fertile spots is the way to cut selling costs and to increase sales.

Find the right markets and then advertise in the newspapers in those markets.

That is the modern way—to make advertising produce definite results at the points where sales opportunities are best.

Figures in the News

Winston Churchill, Chancellor of the Exchequer, announced Great Britain would return to the gold standard immediately and payment of $100,000,000 would be made on its debt to the United States. Samuel Untermyer, noted lawyer, in a speech at a New York banquet, assailed Professor Philip Marshall Brown, of Princeton University, for his attack on the Jews as lacking patriotism. Senator Moses, Republican, of New Hampshire, president pro tem of the Senate, declared Vice-President Dawes would get no aid from him in his campaign to change rules of the Senate. Brigadier-General James F. Peche, who succeeded Col. Mitchell as Chief of the Air Service, stated that the air forces should eventually be separated from army and navy control.

RADIO

(Edited by G. Douglas Wardrop, Editor of Radio Merchandising.)

Set Shown is an Old Circuit to Which Has Been Adapted an Aperiodic Primary That is Semi-Adjustable.

The most revolutionary principle developed in radio-tuning devices in the last year is the aperiodic coupler.
This is one in which a few turns of wire is substituted for the customary variable condenser and tapped coil primary. Its benefits are manifold. The new three-circuit set that has enjoyed the limelight this season along with the superheterodyne owes its exceptional properties entirely to the aperi-odic primary. Aside from this it was nothing but an old single circuit blooper.

The set shown is an old circuit to which has been adapted an aperiodic primary that is semi-adjustable so as to control the degree of selectivity.
With but little effort this principle can be adapted to any of the old-style circuits.

Ordinary Parts.

The parts used are the ordinary variable condenser of .0005 capacity of 23 plates and a variocoupler either of the 90 or 180-degree variety. This last has to be rewound according to specifications that will be given.

The basic circuit is that of the original De Forest Ultra audion and has an excellent range, volume, and tonal quality. In its original form it was susceptible to radiation, and therefore was undesirable as an up-to-date receiver. In its new form practically all radiation is eliminated if the tube is kept below the oscillating or live point.

The set when finished is capable of satisfying the most critical fan on the points of selectivity, as it can be adjusted to any degree so that it can tune out powerful near-by interference or broadened for distance when there is little interference.

Parts Required.

The tuning units and construction material utilized in building the aperiodic set are:

- One variocoupler (special winding).
- One .0005 or 23-plate variable condenser.
- One 7 by 9 panel.
- One rheostat.
- One socket.
- One plunger-type variable grid leak.
- One .00025 grid condenser.

Baseboard, dials, wire, screws, binding posts, etc.

Good parts, of course, tend toward making the set more efficient, the most important being the variable condenser which should be of the low-loss type grounded metal and plates connected to the rotor.

The aperiodic coupler is made up of three separate windings, one of 50 turns and one of 12 turns on the stator of the coupler, and other of 12 turns on the rotor. The 50-turn winding and 12-turn are spaced about 1/4 of an inch apart. The rotor winding is exactly in the center of the rotor ball or tube.
The two 12-turn coils are connected to one another as shown in the illustration and form the aperiodic primary. The 50-turn coil is the secondary and is tuned by the variable condenser which is shunted across it. Wind the coils tightly and fasten the ends of the wire firmly. About No. 24 gauge double silk or double cotton-covered wire should be used throughout. The connection between the 12-turn stator and rotor coils should be made with a piece of flexible Litrendraught of multi-strand flexible wire. Do not use the frame or bearing, as a friction contact is noisy at the best.

Mounting.

Mount the coupler and variable condenser on the two opposite sides of the panel about three or four inches apart. Care should be taken when wiring to make all leads as shown and direct as possible disregarding square corners. Note the lead from the secondary to the plate connection. This is in no way connected to the filament or ground.

Any type of vacuum tube works effectively. Use a rheostat of the proper ohmage and 45 volts of "B" battery on 180 and 201-A types, 22 1/2 volts on WD-11 and 12, and UV-200 types.
The grid leak being flexible can be adjusted for any tube.

The tuning control is the variable condenser. This logs and the settings are permanent for all stations. The rotor of the coupler is solely for the purpose of controlling selectivity.—

Input Transformer or Filter Sharply Tuned

As is now well known, the super-heterodyne has seven more or less distinct parts. First, there is the receiving device and tuner shown at the left of the diagram. This inputs into the first tube. The third part is the oscillator, which also inputs a frequency input and the receiver input differing by a certain fixed frequency for which the group of intermediate transformers are especially tuned.

To avoid other frequencies creeping into the intermediate amplifier, there is placed before it an input transformer, more properly called a Diagram Showing the Receiving Device, Tuner and Oscillator.

Filter, for its purpose is to transmit through only that frequency for which the intermediate transformers are adapted.

To make this input transformer or filter sharply tuned, a condenser is placed across its primary. This is always specified as a fixed condenser, usually .0005 mfd. Experience with hundreds of them has shown, however, that a fixed condenser here is wrong,
because the condensers vary, the filter vary and the transformers vary. This filter determines the intermediate frequency, and a variable condenser should always be used and adjusted in combination with the oscillator condenser for greatest volume. The oscillator frequency must be varied, as you adjust this new condenser. When the new condenser is adjusted to one station, it should not again be touched.

Its setting is then permanent. It is important, however, in first getting the right setting, to adjust the oscillator dial every time the filter condenser is changed, just as you adjust primary and secondary condensers on any set.

How Taps on Coils
Will Aid in Tuning

Tapped connections to coils are made to provide a step-by-step variation in the number of turns. The more common use of the tapped switch is in connection with the primary, where the aerial is made more responsive to a high or low wave by the position of the switch.

In the aerial circuit the switch controls the primary coil by terminals connecting from every fifth turn of the coil to a tap or metal button, the aerial connecting to the switch arm and the ground to one end of the coil.
Regarding the aerial and ground as the plates of a fixed condenser of a capacity equal to that of a grid condenser, or .00025 microfarads, which it actually is, it is seen that it is necessary to add a certain number of turns to the coil to make it tune to a given wave length.

Tuning in the secondary is accomplished by a fixed coil and a variable condenser, and in the primary coil in-ductance. The result is practically the same if one or the other is varied, but both may not be fixed to obtain effective. The fixed primary is a compromise to simplicity.

Battery Acid

a battery from eating into the fiber of the cloth.

Ring Centuries Old

A massive work ring of solid gold, believed by experts to date back to 1200 B. C., was found recently on a farm in Norway. The ring, of artistic design, has been placed in the museum of Christiania university. It is believed to have been buried as an offering to the gods.

Cold Water for Mahogany

A brilliant luster can be given to mahogany furniture by wiping them over with a cloth wrung out of cold water and rubbing to a high polish with a dry cloth. The rubbing should be continued till the polish comes back to the wood, and you will be delighted with the result.

WDBZ Program
Well Received

If the amount of applause received over the phone means anything, certainly the program sent out into the air last night over the local Boy Scout broadcasting station hit everybody just right as a good part of the calls were from folks around Kingston that the station has never heard from before. Starting the evening off with the Junior and Scout periods the first in charge of Lillian Nesslage, the announcer, and the second in charge of Stephen Hiltebrand, announcer for the Scout period, and by the way, Clarence Dunn is making a real hit with his camp talks and scout calls with the ceremonial horn.

The senior program was so full of good stuff that it would be an injustice to anyone of the artists to single out any certain one as the star. The program went through as published with the Allen Brothers at the piano and banjo and Ned Thatcher with the "bones" plus, of course, our old friend, Leon Carey getting their share of good wishes from the fans.

Then when the program put on by the Auditorium Theatre came on with Mrs. Helen Stern Mann and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lazarus, those listening in received a real treat of high class music, certainly this station has never sent anything into the air that has been received with more appreciation. Everybody says bring 'em back.

The program came to a close with the popular Jimmie Connors Jazz Orchestra and Miss Nell Roy now playing at the Keeney Theatre.

The general opinion given last night was that the station is really worth while and should be continued and the offers that have been received to purchase the station and move it to some other city should be rejected.

No Perfect Vacuum

The perfect vacuum, which it is impossible to produce, is space without air or atmosphere. Vacuums are made by pumping all the air out of a receptacle or chamber. In a vacuum, everything falls at the same rapidity, as there is nothing to buoy it up, a feather descending as rapidly as a lead shot.
